

Dr. Petpiboon Prasit is the founder and CEO of Inception Sciences. Previously, he was the co-founder and chief scientific officer of Amira Pharmaceuticals, which was acquired by Bristol Myers Squibb. Dr. Prasit has more than 25 years of experience in pharmaceutical research and management serving in various positions with Merck Frosst Canada and more recently at Merck San Diego. During this time, he played a pivotal role in the discovery of multiple marketed drugs. Dr. Prasit received his BSc from University College London, UK and his PhD from Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand and served as a postdoctoral fellow at Princeton University, New Jersey.